

Baby bird is full of energy, his feathers shine, because on them have landed the stars of all the colorful childhood dreams. The birdie is still petite, still impatient and playful, however, full of tranquility – because in his chest beats a small loving heart, carrying him to the wide and cerulean sky of life even higher, than his strong wings.