

Pearl necklace with a bird clasp is a classic interpretation of a creation tested by time – traditional white pearl necklace – the epitome of success, elegance and perfection in many parts of the world.

Lithuania was not an exception – from the times of Barbora Radvilaitė, the beloved of Sigismund Augustus, and her love for jewelry... Even Elizabeth I, the Queen of England, was fascinated by her pearls.

Our classical white pearl necklace has been inhabited by a birdie – so secretly and subtly, that a careless eye could just miss its presence.
