

Pendant Silhouette reminds us that memories never lose meaning. They never become “old”, “unfashionable”, “artificial” - just the opposite - they have a tendency to become more beautiful with time. Memory preserves only the most beautiful moments, like an old black and white photograph that retains the essence - gentle features and contours, everything else is only a touch of imagination shrouding memories in sentiment and melancholy. Pendant Silhouette is reminiscent of our home, a place where we can always return, a home to our soul. A home that will wait for us when we are happy, and comfort and reassure us gently when we are sad...